

YOUTH IN SOUTHEASTERN EUROPE

SO SIMILAR AND YET, SO DIFFERENT

PANEL DISCUSSION

Tuesday, February 16, 2021, 11 - 12.30 (CET) via Zoom

The participation of young people in politics and civil society is of utmost importance for the future of the societies in Southeastern Europe. A study based on data collected for the comprehensive FES Youth Studies in 2018 all over the region show a surprising number of unexpected differences among the countries.

Differences can in particular be attributed along a rural-urban divide based on a variety of socio-political characteristics.

We cordially invite you to an online event where the results of the FES new study will be presented and discussed.

Youth in Southeastern Europe

SO SIMILAR AND YET, SO DIFFERENT

Tuesday, February 16, 2021, 11 AM via Zoom

Please register <https://bit.ly/399nr4W>

Program

- 11.00 Welcome, Türkan Karakurt, Director, Regional office Zagreb Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung
- 11.05 Panel discussion with
 - Marko Kovačić, Researcher at the Institute for Social Research in Zagreb,
 - Miran Lavrič, Professor, Department of Sociology, University of Maribor,
 - Marija Bulat, Head of Local Branch Office in Serbia, Regional Youth Cooperation Office.
- Moderator: Ema Džejna Smolo, Friedrich-Ebert-Stiftung, Dialogue Southeast Europe
- 11.45 Discussion
- 12.30 End of the online event